zoo for the kids. From a tree-top obstacle course to a scenic railroad tour, everything Stone Mountain has to offer is in full swing during the Labor Day weekend. You can buy an all-attractions pass ($31.95-$34.95, with discounts sometimes available for online purchases in advance) and explore the nation’s largest adventure course, get sprayed at the Geyser Towers or soar to the top of Stone Mountain with the Summit Skyride. You can wrap up the evening with an epic laser show and fireworks that will include a special tribute to honor all of America’s hard-working heroes.

Attraction hours are 10 a.m.-8 p.m. Aug. 31-Sept. 2; fireworks and lasershow at 9:30 p.m. Parking is $20 daily; $40 annually. Stone Mountain Park, 1000 Robert E. Lee Blvd., Stone Mountain. stonemountainpark.com.

Luda Day

Since 2005, rapper and actor Christopher “Ludacris” Bridges has dedicated Labor Day weekend to social service and responsibility. The weekend brings together the Atlanta community and Luda’s celebrity colleagues. LudaDay was recognized as an official city-wide event by Mayor Kasim Reed in 2011. Money raised over the weekend will go to the Ludacris Foundation and other charities benefiting children. Luda Day offers a host of sporting events including celebrity golf and bowling tournaments; a celebrity basketball game; LudaFamDay, a free community festival with food; vendors; music; and a kids zone.

Aug. 30-Sept. 1. Various venues in and around Atlanta. Go to ludadayweekend.com for the complete schedule, tickets and venues.

Chick-fil-A game

If your Labor Day weekend isn’t complete without sports, head over to Mercedes-Benz Stadium for the Chick-fil-A Kickoff Game on Saturday, Aug. 31. Held at the Georgia Dome for years, the game has been at Mercedes-Benz Stadium since 2017. The Chick-fil-A Kickoff Game marks the opening weekend of college football.

Last year, Auburn defeated Washington. This year, the Duke Blue Devils compete against Alabama Crimson Tide. The first game with the title was in 2008 when Alabama beat Clemson. Organizers wanted the game to be a national spotlight game like the Kickoff Classic (At New Jersey’s Meadowlands from 1983-2002) and Disneyland Pigskin Classic (1990s). The ticketed concerts happen Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 31 and Sept. 1, on the festival grounds across from Mercedes-Benz Stadium. Before those concerts, art lovers will want to check out ArTOSA Beyond on Friday, Aug. 30. The exhibit features contemporary artworks by established and newly emerging artists. It’s paired with VinoTOSA where you sip wine while enjoying art.

Aug. 30-Sept. 2. An all-access pass is $199; concerts $15-$100. The free festival entrance is at 10 Northside Drive, while the ticketed concerts take place in a private area within the festival. Check tasteofsoulatlanta.com for info on other venues and events.

Swift plans to rerecord early albums

By Randy Lewis
Los Angeles Times

Taylor Swifties: Prepare for new takes on old songs.

The 29-year-old singer-songwriter told “CBS Sunday Morning” reporter Tracy Smith that she’ll rerecord her catalog in the wake of Big Machine Label Group chief Scott Borchetta’s recent sale of the company — and with it all of Swift’s first six albums — to talent manager Scooter Braun.

No details were offered on whether that constitutes some, most or all of the six studio albums and nearly four dozen singles — 19 of which have reached the top 10 of Billboard’s Hot 100 chart — she has put out since her 2006 debut album, “Taylor Swift,” was released when she was just 16.

Swift publicized her displeasure over Braun’s $300 million purchase of Big Machine when the news surfaced in June, stating that Braun’s control over her recordings constituted “my worst nightmare” because of Braun’s role in the long-running dust-up between Swift and rapper Kanye West and his wife, Kim Kardashian. “Essentially,” she posted on Tumblr at the time, “my musical legacy is about to lie in the hands of someone who tried to dismantle it.”

Singer Kelly Clarkson quickly went on Twitter urging Swift to record new versions that would give fans an alternative to those now controlled by Braun.

By rerecording those older songs and releasing them anew, Swift — and presumably her current label, Republic Records — would receive the proceeds from physical and digital sales and streaming revenues, including songwriting royalties.

Revenue generated by the original versions will go to Big Machine.

On Thursday’s “Good Morning America,” Swift confirmed her plans: “My contract says that starting November 2020 — so, next year — I can record albums 1 through 5 all over again. I’m very excited about it because I think that artists deserve to own their work. I’m very passionate about that.”

hoochee River. Columbus has its own RiverWalk, a 15-mile linear stretch that hugs the banks of a river that’s very familiar to Atlantans. Columbus also has several museums including the Coca-Cola Space Science Center (701 Front Ave.; closed on Labor Day, but open Aug. 30 and 31) and the Columbus Museum (1251 Wynnton Road; closed Mondays). For the adventurous types, take a look at the Columbus DragonFly Trail which, like Atlanta’s Belt-Line, is built on abandoned railroads. It begins at the 14th Street Pedestrian Bridge.

Just 30 minutes southeast of Columbus is the fascinating and colorful Pasaquan (238 Eddie Martin Road, Buena Vista), a folk art environment created by Georgia artist Eddie Owens Martin (aka St. EOM, 1908-1986). Get details on these attractions and more at visitcolumbusga.com. For more on Pasaquan, see pasaquan.columbusstate.edu.

Chattanooga

Chattanooga boasts breathtaking mountain views, a revitalized riverfront and a growing list of downtown amenities. Situated about two hours northwest of Atlanta, this easy drive up I-75 offers rich outdoor adventures, a thriving art scene and a wide array of restaurant options from fine dining to Champy’s fried chicken. The Tennessee Aquarium (1 Broad St., tnaqua.org) is a world-class aquatic wonderland. The venue’s newest exhibit is “Island Life,” which includes a massive tank that explores the shoreline of Canada’s Vancouver Island. Like Augusta and Columbus, Chattanooga has its own Riverwalk, this one a 13-mile paved path along the Tennessee River. If you’re looking for adventure, head to Lookout Mountain for stunning vistas and beautiful Ruby Falls.

Check out chattanooga-fun.com for more on Chattanooga’s attractions.
